Stockingless Golf For Women Barred By Lake Placid Club

Open Air Concert Will Aid
Disabled Troops; Results Have Field Day for Prizes in Novelty Races

Special Correspondence
LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Stockingless golf, which some of the young women members of the summer colony imagined would prove a delightful modification of the stockingless mode, is not to be permitted here and stockings will be worn at all indoor and outdoor events at Lake Placid, even at the expense of having the resort deemed prudish.

The August events, with which the latter part of the month is usually crowded, are now on. Members of the summer colony turned out in force for the sale on Tuesday night by the Daughters of Isabella in the basement of St. Agnes's Church, and also for the piano recital the same evening in the parlors of the Grand View Hotel by Miss Edna Stuyvesant Crowe, of New York. The coming events include a concert in the parlors at the Stevens House on the night of August 21, at which the soloist will be Johan Van Bommel, Belgian baritone; a concert for the benefit of disabled soldiers in the open air Forest of Arden Theatre at Placid Club August 22, at which George Hamlin will sing, and the annual masked ball in the Wigwam at Whiteface Inn August 23.

Resorters Have Field Day
Winners in the annual field day winners at Whiteface Inn included women's polo race, Miss Marjorie Bunker, relay race, Miss Towle and Miss Ruth Lyndecker; Women's three-legged race, Miss Mary Schenck and Miss Jean McKelvey; elephant race, Graham Devine and J. C. Larkin; shoe race, Teddy Ladd and Miss Jean McKelvey; back-to-back race, Miss Rector, Miss Milton Baldrige; obstacle race, Miss Ruth Lyndecker; married men's race, James Harden, L. A. Duckworth, of New York; Charles F. Doscher, of Orange, N. J.; and Blanchard Adkins, of Brooklyn, were judges of the events.

The committee in charge of the annual masked ball at Whiteface Inn, August 23, includes Mrs. H. S. Grant, Mrs. J. J. Sweeney, Charles Frederick Doscher and L. A. Duckworth, of New York.

Combined with the annual moonlight excursion about Lake Placid aboard the steamer Doris, in which about 200 of the sojourners at the Inn joined, was a marshmallow roast at Undercliff which was opened to the party by Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Jarvis, of New York.

At the Grand View Hotel Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Koehler, of Brooklyn, have been joined there by their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David MacFadyen, of New York, who motored up and will remain through August.

At the Maple Cottage at the Grand View Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Sheehan and family, of Greenwich, Conn., are entertaining Miss D. Quinn, of New York.

Recent New York arrivals at the Grand View include Mrs. Zora L. Hewitt and her brother, William Campbell, who are there for the balance of the season; Bertram L. Conway, W. B. Plummer, Charles A. Schumacher, E. R. Butler, Mrs. A. Laguna, Mrs. C. B. Barto, L. Morisano, Thomas P. Kelly and Miss M. F. Kelly.

The principal golf event at the Stevens House was a mixed foursome, which was won by Mrs. Joseph L. McMahon and William J. McConville, who defeated Miss Whitmore and G. P. B. Clark in the final four and two. Among the contestants were Congressman Thomas E. Smith and his daughter, Miss Smith.

Mrs. J. Hollis Wells, wife of Colonel Wells, of the 99th Regiment, one of the women prominently identified with the Red Cross and other war work in New York, is at the Stevens House for the season, accompanied by her son, Richmond Wells.

Many New Arrivals
Those recently returned for the remainder of the season at the Stevens House include Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Anna Baar, Miss Florence Baar, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Milander, others from New York. Arrived there are Captain L. H. Bunker, Mrs. E. J. Kelly, the Misses Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Sherry, Jr., Walter H. Lavery, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McManus, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney New, Miss New.

Sojourners at Northwoods Inn, headed by William J. Kelly, of New York, made the ascent of Mount Whiteface and joined in a motorboat moonlight excursion on Lake Placid.

Those who recently arrived at Northwoods Inn for the season include Miss Florence Gallery, Mrs. H. A. Cross, son and daughter, Walter R. Johnson and A. L. Church, of New York.

New York arrivals at Lake Placid include at Lake Placid Inn, S. Blumenthal, Miss Helen Blumenthal, Miss Delphine Rosenthal, Miss Mary E. Brown, Mrs. E. J. McConville, Mrs. Carbonell and son, Horace M. Dean; at the Pines, Mr. and Mrs. G. Geller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Noll; at Lake Placid Club, Mr. and Mrs. Alva B. See, William J. Quinn, Miss Eliza B. Butler, Mrs. M. Safford, Otis Smith, Daniel Bentley.

Annual Horse Show At Sulphur Springs Draws Great Crowd

Cottontail Friday Night Ends
Most Successful Society
Event at Southern Resort;
Women Riders Winners

Special Correspondence
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 16.—White Sulphur Springs has never known a more successful August, with both the Greenbrier and The White packed to capacity and cottagers harboring many friends who have come for the great social weeks of August.

The crowd has been so heavy that the rest rooms in the bath establishment have been converted into sleeping quarters, and surrounding resorts have cared for many motor parties unable to receive accommodations here. Cottontails are being revived at the Old White this season, and the horse show cottontail Friday night was a great success, over 300 people dancing in the famous old ballroom and about that many forming an interested gallery.

The horse show at the Meadows was the chief attraction this last week, as it always is, and receipts at the gate showed the largest attendance in the history of the show. Many motor parties came from Charleston, Hot Springs, Old Spanish Springs and other points across the mountains.

The Plaza club offered for the horses in the harness class, went to Mrs. James B. Weir, of Charleston, whose Golden Scepter, shown in National shows and at Madison Square Garden, won several cups at this show. Mrs. Thornton Lewis drove for Mrs. Weir. Miss Marie J. Leary, of Greenwich, Conn., rode Zip, a Dickson Brother entry, in the jumping class, capturing the James R. Thomas cup. On the second day, Mrs. Leary rode the same horse, capturing the second prize. The Dickson school hunter, that has never been ridden by a woman in any of the shows here, and captured the blue ribbon in a jumping class.

The most interesting event of the two days' show was the riding of Miss Carol P. Smith on Cherokee, an Indian pony, who was so spirited that it was almost impossible to check him. On the third day, Miss Smith rode the same horse, clearing five feet for a three-foot jump and shook Miss Smith so she lost her stirrups. Before she could regain her seat, she was pointed, broke for the fourth jump and Miss Smith went over in perfect form. The feat was rewarded with the Hawley cup and amid loud cheers from an admiring gallery.

Miss Haldeman Rides
Miss Isabel Haldeman, of Louisville, who has ridden in the shows here for several seasons, rode Mrs. Lawrence Lewis's Palm Tree in a jumping class, coming in for the red ribbon. On the third day, she rode the same horse, clearing five feet for a three-foot jump and shook Miss Smith so she lost her stirrups. Before she could regain her seat, she was pointed, broke for the fourth jump and Miss Smith went over in perfect form. ## August Rush To Resorts Is Making Record

Tents and Army Cots Used to Care for Vacationists
Unable to Find Rooms at Lakes or the Seashore

Many Affairs Scheduled

"Arabian Nights" Spectacle
at R. R. Conklin Estate
Leading Function of Fall

So great are the crowds at the various resorts now that in some cases the hotels have to provide tents and army cots to accommodate the hundreds who, failing to make reservations in advance, appear on the scene and seek rooms. The rush is not confined to any particular section, but is general at inland, mountain and seashore resorts. This condition of affairs will keep up until Labor Day, when the usual rush back to the city will set in. Then after a short stay in the city, society will start for fall resorts, Hot Springs, White Sulphur, Tuxedo, Lenox, etc.

For the next two weeks (Labor Day comes Sept. 1 this year) there will be a constant round of sporting attractions and entertainments of all kinds at the resorts.

Tennis will be switched to Southampton this week and all the stars will appear there in the tournament and as a consequence the week will be gay, with luncheons, dinners and dances for the visiting players. One of the largest affairs of the week will be the dance which Clarence H. Mackay will give on Tuesday for his daughter, Miss Katherine Mackay. It will be one of the brilliant private affairs of the season at this popular resort.

Saturday night Mrs. De Lancey Nicoll will give a dance at her cottage, Windymere, and Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson will give a dinner on the same evening. Her guests afterward going to Mrs. Nicoll's dance.

Mrs. Henry B. Rogers gives a dance Friday evening at her villa, The Dunes, and Mrs. Albert Gallatin gives a dinner that evening, afterward taking her guests to the dances.

After Southampton the tennis players go to Forest Hills and many will come back to town from the resorts to watch the national and international championship matches there.

"The Arabian Nights" it was announced yesterday, is to be the title of the musical, which is to be the first of a series of musicals to be given at the Lenox Club. The musical is to be given at the Lenox Club, which is to be the first of a series of musicals to be given at the Lenox Club.

Among the women who are most active in the arrangements are Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. J. P. Morgan, Mrs. Stephen C. Clark, Mrs. A. Perry Osborn, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. Newbold Le Roy Edgar, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. William Thaw, 3d, Mrs. James A. Burden, Jr., and Mrs. Junius Morgan.

Miss Lucine Camille du Pont, daughter of Dr. A. C. du Pont, of New York, is married to Dr. Roy J. Evans, Aviation Corps, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chapel of St. George's Church, Stuyvesant Square. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward Gahler, assistant rector. The bride, who was given away by her father, had only one attendant, her bridesmaid, Miss M. Evans, daughter of the bridegroom's father, Miss M. Evans, daughter of the bridegroom's father.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Linn Bruce, of 347 Convent Avenue, announced yesterday, at their summer home at Andes, N. Y., the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lillian Ballantine Bruce, to Carl Herbert Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Perkins, of Rutland, Vt. Miss Bruce was graduated from Vassar in June.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Helen Leycester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Leycester, of Voorhis Point, South Nyack, N. Y., to Donald White Polhemus, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Polhemus, of South Nyack, N. Y.

Society Enjoys Week
Of Polo and Golf
Rockaway and Meadow Brook
Cross Mallets in Match of International Type

Special Correspondence
GARDEN CITY, L. I., Aug. 16.—This has been golf week at the Salisbury Golf Club and polo week at Meadow Brook Hunt Club, that adjoins the famous Salisbury course.

Polo matches of the International type with some of the best known of American players have been in progress during the week. One of the best of these matches was on Wednesday, when Rockaway and Meadow Brook again crossed mallets. Playing on Meadow Brook was Major C. C. Rumsey, Lieutenant "Tommit" Hitchcock, Jr., J. Watson Webb and Devereux Milburn, who recently returned from the front where he was attached to an artillery regiment. On Rockaway were Reddy, E. H. Prince, Jr., E. W. Hopping, Malcolm Stevenson and Harry Payne Whitney, captain of two former international teams. E. C. Cowdin also played during the week, and Meadow Brook won by a score of 10½ to 3 goals. There are now fourteen polo fields within a short distance of here and more polo is being played this year than in the history of the game in this country.

At the Garden City Hotel are Mrs. G. C. Eustace and Miss Eustace, C. S. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Dixon, Mrs. C. H. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Harper, Mrs. W. G. Oakman, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wyde, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Douglas and Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Arnold.

Mrs. C. H. Coster, of New York, was the week-end guest of her daughter, Countess Otto Salm. Count and Countess Salm and son and daughter are spending the summer at the Garden City Hotel.

At the Newport Tennis Tournament

Mrs. Henry G. Gray (on left) and the Countess of Zoppola were interested spectators at the recent tennis matches at the Rhode Island resort. The Countess has returned to New York and soon will sail for Italy with her husband. She was Miss Edith Mortimer.

Death of Carnegie Puts Damper Upon Functions at Lenox

Stockbridge Colony Pays
Tribute to Memory of F.
Crownshield; Prominent
Artists' Works at Show

Special Correspondence
LENOX, Mass., Aug. 16.—The deaths of Andrew Carnegie and Mrs. William Kingsland, both of the cottage colony of Lenox, was the cause of a very quiet week here. With the exception of a few entertainments at the weekend there were no important affairs in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dodge Peters and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Nesbit, of the Great Barrington colony, brought a party of forty friends to Hotel A. pinewood Thursday night for a dinner dance.

Mrs. George Willis Peters, Jr., and her daughter, Mrs. Paul Downing, of New York, gave a bridge party for twenty at Great Barrington Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Mathewson had fourteen guests at dinner at their country place in Sheffield Monday night. Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Staats were also hosts at dinner at Folly Farm, in Great Barrington.

Mrs. Edward B. Owen, of Stockbridge, has arranged for an exhibition of ponies and pony races at the Stockbridge Meadows September 6. There will be races at which children will ride their mounts.

Famous artists are gathering in Stockbridge for the annual exhibition. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sedgwick are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Frazier and Allen Tucker at the Mansions.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Delafield, of Little Farm, gave a moonlight picnic on Bald Head Mountain Sunday night, entertaining for their daughter, Mrs. John E. P. Morgan, who arrived last week and has been stopping at Stoneover with the Misses Mary and Gertrude Parsons.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hammond and their family went to Mount Kisco, N. Y., from a month at Elm Court. Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm D. Sloane and Mrs. James A. Burden, of New York, arrived here to visit their mother, Mrs. William D. Sloane. Mrs. Sloane has been passing all of the season in Lenox, making only short automobile trips from her country seat.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Milbank, who have been touring, arrived at the Maplewood, Pittsfield, early this week. Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Flournoy, of Chicago, are visiting their mother, Mrs. William D. Sloane.

Narragansett Week Marked by "Khana" And Many Functions

First Evening Dance at Club
Well Patronized by Summer Colonists; Bridge Parties Prove Popular

NARRAGANSETT PIER, Aug. 16.—Gymkana games, organized under the direction of Philip S. P. Randolph, president of the Point Judith Polo Association, were held today at the Point Judith Country Club. A costume race for all ages was one of the most amusing of the many, which included a polo ball, spoon and egg, potato, animal and bending races. A ten dance followed the games.

Last night the first evening dance of the season was held at the Country Club. Almost the entire membership subscribed and brought many guests.

House Parties Numerous
Nearly all the villas are filled with house parties, who will attend the Saturday evening hop at the Casino. One of the many hosts of large dinner parties at the Casino during the week was Governor L. Livingston Beckman, who, with Mrs. Beckman, brought former Ambassador James W. Gerard and Mrs. Gerard and other guests from Newport in his yacht, the Shark. E. Babcock, of the Casino, and Mrs. Babcock entertained twenty young people Monday at luncheon and dancing in the Casino. The Misses Elizabeth and Gertrude Crawford were the guests of honor. The other guests included the Misses Marjorie Lake, Gladys Cordova, Emily Milliken, Gertrude Babcock, Connie Bassett, Mrs. George M. Woodford, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Marian Brown, of Denver; the Messrs. Philip and Oliver Hawes, Theodore Marselles, F. S. Farr, Donald Ferguson, Henry Green, "Iris" Collett and G. Ekins Knable, of Pittsburgh.

Others giving luncheons at the Casino included Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., who, with Nicholas N. Potter and John Brodie, were at the luncheon several days; Walter L. Goodwyn, polo player of Hartford, who is at the Gladstone; Robert Lehman and Arthur D. M. Corley, of New York, who are among the polo players at the Massachusetts; Mr. Bristow Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Lowmes, of Dunmore-on-the-Cliffs, whose guests included Major M. C. Miel, Dr. and Mrs. Frederic Hassey, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Malinowski, Mrs. Aubrey Edgerton Myers and Miss Clara Lee Lowmes. The table decorations were of flowers from the gardens at Dunmore.

The annual church fair and dog show on the lawn of the Church of St. Peter-by-the-Sea were held Tuesday. The chairman of the different tables included the Misses Constance, of New York; Mrs. Alfred E. Norris and Miss Dorothy Norris, of New York; Mrs. Henry Brevoort Kane and Miss Florence Kane, of New York; Mrs. C. C. Roberts, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Thomas E. Martin and Miss Percy Martin, of Washington; Mrs. John H. Hannan, who donated the order of the fair; Mrs. Hanan, of New York; Mrs. John P. Fell, of Philadelphia, had charge of the dog show.
